Wonderful Collections of Soap Recipes. By far, this book has the biggest collections of Soap Recipes that I have ever read. K.M. Kassi has compiled a year-long collections of soap recipes, together with the additional 100 recipes on the 'do-it-yourself soap making recipes book'. This book explains the basics on making soap. K.M. also explains the different kinds of facial and body soaps, as well as the method on making soap, like CP or Cold Process, HP or Hot Process, OPM or Oven Process method and other methods. In here, KM also tackles about the commonly used ingredients in making soap and soap bases like pure castile soap, french milk soap, glycerin soap, base oils, colorants, essential oils, and many more. What is unique about this book is that you can make a soap every single day because KM has specifically designated a recipe for each day, from January 1st until December 31st of the year. Also, this book is accompanied by another book by KM, the DIY Soap Making Recipes wherein KM explains more of the basics of soap making, and all the basic ingredients on soapmaking, like lye, distilled water, oils, etc. Also, more tips have been included here in the second book, together with the additional 100 DIY Soap Making Recipes. Overall, this book is varied from different types of soap recipes.
